

To whom it may concern:

Apology and Notice Regarding Suspicious E-mails

Disguised as Our Company

We have confirmed that a suspicious email disguised as our company has been sent to several people.

We deeply apologize for the inconvenience caused to everyone who received this email.

Suspicious emails were not sent by employees of our company or our affiliated companies.

The suspicious point that can be confirmed at this time is that the email address domain (characters below @) is different from the actual one.

Our company uses the email address "@leben-ce.com", but the suspicious email uses the domain "@leben-ce.co" without the "m" in "com".

In addition, although the content of the job offer is described in the email, we will not send an email that makes an offer directly to an individual.

Therefore, if you receive a suspicious email, please check the sender's address below the @ mark and delete it promptly without replying to the email or opening the attached file.

In response to this incident, we and our affiliated companies will endeavor to prevent the spread of damage and further strengthen information security measures.

We appreciate your understanding and cooperation.

Leben Clean Energy Co., Ltd.